

Rian Immigrant Center J-1 Visa Fees and Cancellation Policy

ABOUT

The terms and conditions listed on this form outline the refund policy of the visa sponsor, Rian Immigrant Center and the sponsorship fees paid by an applicant in order to proceed with applying for the J-1 Irish Work & Travel visa or the J-1 Intern visa.

FEES

Our sponsorship fee for the 2020 allotment year is $1,100. Payments for our sponsorship application are broken up as follows:

- Payment 1 (Deposit): Rian Application - $400. This payment is to cover only our costs in work undertaken in stage 1 of your visa application. It also reserves a spot in our allocation, pending approval. It is not linked to any outcome in relation to whether any applicant will or will not receive a visa, or travel to the U.S. If an applicant chooses to withdraw their application, Rian Immigrant Center chooses to cancel an application, or if your application does not proceed for any reason - this payment will not be refunded to the applicant under any circumstances. Stage 1 covers our expenses for processing duties and administrative work.

- Payment 2: Rian Final Balance Payment- $700. This payment is to cover all of our remaining costs in finalizing your visa application. This payment is not linked to any outcome in relation to whether any applicant will or will not receive a visa, or travel to the U.S. as this is up to a visa consular office at the Embassy. This final payment will allow you to receive the orientation information, preparation and conducting of the sponsor interview with a Rian staff member to discuss your DS-2019 details and visa program, post interview administration and records updating, and checking for proper health insurance.
 - During this final stage, we will be creating and maintaining your SEVIS record and issuing your DS-2019.
 - Note: If you cancel your application, fail your Embassy interview, or do not travel to the US for any reason, we will refund your balance payment of $700 if you have paid it.

Creating pathways to new beginnings.